

BRINGING THE OUTSIDE IN

With the summer now here we are benefiting from lighter evenings and wanting to spend more time outside of our homes to make the most of the sunshine. Award-winning Appledore Developments Ltd has created a secluded rural retreat at The Old Pottery in Rye, overlooking the beautiful River Tillingham where the houses have façade-glazing that lead out onto a terrace making the most of the exclusive striking riverside views, creating a valuable extra outside space.

Not only can you enjoy the great mix of indoor and outdoor spaces which blend seamlessly together in these new homes at The Old Pottery, the beautiful harbour town of Rye which is steeped in character and history is nearby so you can wander around the cobbled streets and narrow lanes where you will find art galleries, boutiques, antiques shops and cafes to relax in.

Yvette Brotherton, Sales and Marketing Director for Appledore Developments, said: "We are extremely proud of all the homes at The Old Pottery, as they all reflect the time and care that we have taken over the design and finish of each of them. All the homes have been designed with the modern family in mind and to make the most of its stunning riverside location."

She continues: "At Appledore we understand the importance of flexible living spaces when buyers are looking for a new home and at The Old Pottery we have really created something special with the façade-glazing doors extending the living rooms with the beautiful decks. Residents can enjoy the comfort of their stunning new home while taking in the fresh air and amazing views."

The Old Pottery is a beautiful collection of an office, three stunning apartments, five townhouses and one detached home with a studio overlooking the picturesque river Tillingham close to Rye's old town centre and station. The homes are ideally situated with the necessary local amenities only a short walk away. Rye has a wonderful heritage and allows its residents to soak up the historic charm whilst relaxing in one of the many cafes and bistros.

The Old Pottery is a secure gated development with all homes benefiting from an excellent specification. The kitchens are fully fitted and come with a range of Siemens appliances and the bathrooms feature white sanitaryware, which is complemented by chrome brassware.
